Abstract

63 words

Chemlogic is a logic program for performing stoichiometric calculations, converting chemical quantities, balancing and completing equations, and converting formulas to/from names.

These features are implemented using a chemical information database, grammatical rules, and a linear equation solver. Chemlogic can provide guidance for resolving syntax and other errors. It is designed as a study tool and is available on the Web and Android.